Bachelor's and Master's Study Programmes

Charles University is a leading research university that combines high-quality science, research and education on both a global and national scale. There are 17 faculties which are financially independent and self-governing, but relate to the central University. There are approximately 46,000 students studying at CU, including many international students from all around the world. Charles University offers degrees in Bachelor's, Master's and Ph.D. study programmes.

REQUIREMENTS AND STANDARDS

All prospective students have to meet the following admissions criteria:

- Be high school graduates. Secondary school leaving certificates gained abroad are subject to nostrification. Nostrification is part of the application process. Successful applicants will have to provide their certification before/during enrolment or by the date stated by the faculty.
- Applicants applying for a follow-up Master's degree programme must hold a Bachelor's degree (usually in a related field).
- Applicants applying for a doctoral (Ph.D.) study programme must hold a Master's diploma.
- All applicants are required to submit a completed application form with a non-refundable application fee (if applicable) to the respective faculty. Some faculties require the applicants to pass entrance exams (usually written and/or oral exam; practical exam may also be required). More specific entry requirements are determined, in accordance with the law, by the dean of the faculty.
- If applying for studies in Czech, the entrance exams are administered in the Czech language. If applying for studies in English, the exams are all in English and no knowledge of the Czech language is required.

Application Forms

Students can submit their applications using the central university online application system. The application forms are also available on the faculty websites.

Entrance Exams

Exams (if applicable) are held from May to July according to the respective faculty.

LEGAL CONDITIONS FOR INTERNATIONAL STUDENTS

General Information

Foreign nationals (with the exception of EU/EEA members and citizens of Switzerland)

applying to study in the Czech Republic have to contact the Czech Embassy or the Ministry of Interior of the Czech Republic in order to obtain up-to-date information on visa requirements for study purposes:

<http://www.mvcr.cz/mvcren/article/information-for-schools-and-students.aspx>

Visa and Residence Permit

Due to the Czech Republic's membership in the EU, citizens of the European Union (EU) countries, citizens of the European Economic Area (EEA) countries, and citizens of Switzerland do not require a visa for any type of visit or stay in the Czech Republic.

Other nationals need to go to the Czech Embassy to apply for either a long-term visa for the purpose of studies (for stays over 90 days up to several months) or a long-term residence permit for the purpose of studies (if they intend to stay longer than 1 year). The advantage of the residence permit is longer validity and the possibility of changing its purpose of stay. On the other hand, the visa for the purpose of studies is free of charge while the application for a long-term residence permit for the purpose of studies costs CZK 500 and then CZK 1,000 when collecting the residence card in the Czech Republic. When applying for the long-term residence permit, students will receive a special single-entry visa for the purpose of collecting the long-term residence permit (a plastic biometric card) in the Czech Republic. This type of visa is granted for a maximum stay of 60 days.

We consistently rank in the top 1% of all medical schools globally with a number of Nobel prize winners amongst our alumni. Our degrees not only have recognition and accreditation throughout Europe, but even after Brexit our students can claim automatic full registration in the UK – GMC/GDC without the need for any extra exams. We also have full accreditation in all 50 states in the USA, being one of only 20 medical schools outside of the US to hold Californian State accreditation. Our aim is to make you the best doctors and dentists in the world!

The faculty came into existence as an independent faculty of paediatric medicine in 1953 when paediatrics was separated from what was then the Faculty of Medicine. Since 1990, when major changes in the content and style of studies took place, the faculty has been known as the Second Faculty of Medicine.

Graduates of the faculty are equipped for careers in any branch of medicine. Our graduates are well prepared for careers in family medicine, specialized paediatric fields and other areas where a continuous and dynamic developmental view of the patient is essential. The teaching programme involves theoretical and preclinical subjects (1st to 3rd year) followed by the clinical disciplines (4th to 6th year). Every international student is obliged to pass an examination in the Czech language at the end of their 3rd study year to be able to communicate with patients and the staff during their study of clinical subjects. During their study, the students also have an opportunity to get basic knowledge in a field of research or medicine of their choice.

The Third Faculty of Medicine of Charles University was separated from the Faculty of General Medicine in 1953 as an independent Medical Faculty of Hygiene, which then specialized in problems of hygiene and preventive medicine. In 1990 the faculty developed a new study programme in General medicine which is taught as integrated and problem oriented with an early introduction of bedside teaching (1st study year). The medical (Master's) programme takes 6 years, with the first two years focused on basic medical sciences, the third year on preclinical subjects and the fourth to the sixth year on clinical practice. Preventive medicine is included in both types of training, theoretical and clinical.

The Faculty started its educational activities almost 80 years ago (1945) and has been offering the English study programmes since 1992. It combines tradition with modern teaching methods. Students learn anatomy with real cadavers but at the same time practice their lifesaving skills on phantoms and simulators before they treat real-life patients. The new Simulation Centre serves to run scenarios that may be scarce in practice but require confidence and skills. You can participate in research, travel for further experience or plan your future career in Czechia, options are plentiful. Student organizations will help you navigate the rich life and culture of our student city. Everything is close by; you can easily get around on bike or on foot and enjoy the parks and the riverbanks.

The Faculty of Humanities gained full academic autonomy in 2000 and is the youngest CU Faculty. As such, it combines in itself the tradition of Charles University with modern approaches in both science and education. Its main academic focus is within philosophy, humanities and social sciences and it puts a strong emphasis on multi-disciplinary research and perspectives in education. Located in a new, campus-like facility of Charles University in the Prague district of Libeň, the school has 240 faculty members and approximately 2,500 students.

The Protestant Theological Faculty was founded in 1919, shortly after the establishment of the Czechoslovak Republic, then as an independent university school under the name of the Hus Czechoslovak Evangelical Faculty of Theology. It was incorporated into Charles University in 1990. It offers study programs in protestant and ecumenical theology and social work, educating men and women for ordained and lay ministry in churches and for work in various areas of social work. Graduates of this faculty may find employment in a wide range of occupations where education in humanities is required.
